of us had a lovely dinner at Barmah Park. The service was fantastic, the main courses of pork belly and special of the day barramundi were fabulous. We thought the entrees were let the meal down just a little, the lamb skewers were rather chewy, but the flavour was good, however, the special arancini balls were sensational. Highly recommended read more. The restaurant and its premises are wheelchair accessible and thus usable with a wheelchair or physiological limitations. What User doesn't like about Barmah Park Cellar Door:

The setting and restaurant layout were good. We had a wine tasting which was in a very dark uninteresting space. We had 4 samples of very average wine and were charged $10 each even though we were dining at the restaurant. I thought that was really mean and inhospitable as this was their chance to display their own wines which we would be having at lunch. The food was good but not memorable and not worth $75 for 2 co... read more.
