The place from Honolulu offers 178 different dishes and drinks on the menu at an average price of $11.0. What User likes about Kabuki:

The place is old, but the prices seem to have gone down from the first time I was there about 5 years ago. The food was delicious at the time, but I didn't want to pay the price. However, they now have good food combinations and have kept their high discounts of 10%. Two of my aunts liked it! The servers seem abrupt when they talk to you, but it is the personality of the place. A server asked if we wanted Dessert, an... read more.

What User doesn't like about Kabuki:

If you dine here, be sure to make a reservation. We went without one. Although they accommodated us, it was made clear we needed to be done eating by the time the table was needed in an hour for a parties that did make reservations. I felt unwelcome and rushed. Not a single smile from the elderly server. When the time came for the parties who made reservations to arrive, the server came and said something like, Ok yo... read more. Traditional menus are prepared in the kitchen of Kabuki in Honolulu with original Asian spices scrumptious, and a lot of freshly harvested vegetables, fish and meat are used to prepare healthy Japanese meals. The Asian fusion cuisine is also an important part of Kabuki. Anyone who finds the normal and generally known dishes too ordinary can here approach with a willingness to experiment and try some exciting combination of ingredients taste, Especially delicious are also the Maki and delicacies like Sashimi from this establishment.
