The restaurant from Atlanta offers 16 different dishes and drinks on the menu at an average $9.1. This restaurant/bar in Midtown is a popular spot, especially in the LGBTQ+ community. However, many patrons have complained about the music being cringe-worthy and the manager/bartender, Emir, displaying rude and disrespectful behavior. Despite these negatives, the staff is friendly, the drinks are reasonably priced, and the atmosphere is fun, with vibrant decor and neon lights. The community is described as lovely, with friendly patrons and attentive bartenders. The only downside seems to be the cleanliness of the bathrooms. Overall, it's a lively and diverse spot that could use some improvements in customer service and cleanliness. Fun spot to visit for drinks, music, and a good time.
