The Card of Public Records from Brooklyn contains about 15 different menus and drinks. On average, you pay for a dish / drink about $14.8. What User likes about Public Records: really good food and really attentive service. we sat inside and it seemed like the people who were there to feed, were inside and in the outside were the people makly there for drinks. more people in the outside terrace than inside in the early evening. we will put this on our rotation and bring friends and family next time. read more. The diner is accessible and can therefore also be used with a wheelchair or physical disabilities, Depending on the weather, you can also sit outside and eat and drink. What User doesn't like about Public Records: The vibe of this place is really cool and the service is great. However, the main reason we came was for the food which was just ok. The dishes were nicely decorated and decent size but unfortunately we did not like all the flavors. Most of the dishes felt bitter or like something was off, trying to be something it's not. The tostadas were great though read more. With the large variety of coffee and tea specialties, a visit to Public Records becomes even more attractive, At the bar, you can unwind with a freshly tapped beer or other alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks. There are also easily digestible Mediterranean dishes on the menu, and easily digestible Japanese meals are being made with lots of freshly harvested vegetables, fish and meat.
