I love eating at Zips. My first visit was back in 2020 and the thin old cook, who woke up hell with the poor cashiers, could not help them to be short employees. This past June stopped again and I was glad not to see how the chef wakes up. The food was great and the checkout was nice. I look forward to visiting Spokane during my next trip. read more. The diner and its rooms are wheelchair accessible and thus usable with a wheelchair or physical disabilities, and there is free WLAN. What Matthew doesn't like about Zip's Drive In:

Honestly, the food was terrible. Dried out over cooked burgers and they gave me a half a made chocolate milk shake and I ordered a chocolate malt with extra malt. The place is dirty from being old. The People were friendly and even asked to bum a cigarette while I was outside smoking. I didn't mind. There was three of us and we paid over 45 dollars. The food should have been on point for that price. Service: Dine in... read more.
