The classic banh mis and summer rolls here are fantastic. This place makes some of the best banh mis that I've come across, and they're quite large and not too expensive. They also have hoisin sauce and sriracha for dressing (no sweet chili sauce here unfortunately). The summer rolls are very mint-forward, which I enjoyed but it's not typical for them to be so minty. Flavorful broth, more in the bland side. Overcooked noodles. Summer rolls were good but i could barely taste the shrimp, it was cut very thinly (half a shrimp per roll, basically) and had no flavor other than mint. The ordering process was kinda off. I asked for the combo that was advertised at the door, which was pho+appetizer+coffee.

The cashier told me it comes with soda. I asked for what was advertised at the door... read more.
