The restaurant from Calumet-Norvelt offers 10 different meals and drinks on the menu at an average $7.1. What User likes about Sharbat:

Azeri/central Asian pastries and cookies made with love by hand. This is the real deal. The taste is different from European pastries, it's much less sweet/salty, but real ingredients wonderfully puffy really like home-made if your grandma was Azeri could bake well. I really don't know any other shops in DC where you can get this kind of artisanal patisserie. They also do some nice looking breakfasts though I haven't... read more. What User doesn't like about Sharbat:

No doubt their cakes are good but the customer service is beyond horrible and I have serious questions about their hygiene. The lady behind the counter was coughing and when we purchased a slice she used bare hands to pick up the cake bottom. I requested that she wear gloves and she became extremely annoyed and literally dumped my cake slice in the container. Also saw her use the gloves to touch the register and then... read more.

For visitors of the establishment, the catering service is also available.
