Came their from Baltimore to take my significant other out for his birthday. We loved everything about it. The food was delicious and we'll present it drinks were excellent and our waiter Maxwell was very helpful. Then only thing is when we saw a worker outside we asked him was it a parking garage near by and he said no but it was in the next block the cost was $20 dollar up first. But overall we enjoyed and will be... read more. The diner and its premises are wheelchair accessible and thus usable with a wheelchair or physical limitations. What User doesn't like about Lost Society In Wash:

It was an enjoyable experience at Lost Society with decent food accompanied by okay mimosas the champagne was truly cheap and efficient service. However, the 20% service fee is not fair to guests at all, and I still expect a tip in addition to the service fee. A service fee is a fee that is managed by the service provider and should be covered by the management, not the customer. This is unacceptable. read more.
