We enjoyed this tour a lot and got lots of great pictures, even though Hurricane Ida removed some foliage from the famous oak trees. It's a nice plantation and the original fan over the table was interesting to learn about. After the tour, we shared a mint julep which was very tasty. We had the original one with bourbon but they also have a non-alcoholic option. The grounds were nice to talk around and they had some... read more. When the weather conditions is good you can also eat outside, And into the accessible spaces also come visitors with wheelchairs or physical limitations. What User doesn't like about Oak Alley Plantation:

Don't get me wrong, the place is beautiful!!! You pay $27 or $25 if you're 65 or more, and can get them online or in-person. Unfortunately, the tour 1hr is ONLY in the big house alias the Master's nothing in the slave's quarters, you'll go by yourself. They did mention the slaves a couple of times but they are more focused on the white family lifestyle who lived there. It's a shame it could've been way more interesti... read more. In case you're hungry some fiery South American cuisine, you're in the right place: delightful meals, cooked with fish, seafood, and meat, but also corn, beans, and potatoes are in the menu, and you may look forward to the delicious traditional seafood cuisine. In addition, there are scrumptious American meals, such as burgers and grilled meat, Forbreakfast a versatile brunch is offered here.
