Parker's Barbecue in Wilson, North Carolina has a mixed reputation among reviewers. Some long-time fans praise it as a family tradition with great prices and delicious food, especially loving the North Carolina barbecue. Others, however, express disappointment in the changing quality of the menu, with complaints about salty Brunswick stew and high prices for small portions. Despite the mixed reviews, many customers still find the food delicious and worth the wait, driving long distances to enjoy the barbecue and chicken. The speedy service and efficient teamwork of the staff are particularly highlighted, making Parker's stand out for its first-class service. While some reviewers caution about the cash-only policy, overall, the restaurant receives praise for its tasty food and efficient operation.
